January 1, 2021

We are proud to share Hadar’s new strategic plan, which will guide an extremely ambitious and exciting phase of further growth over the next four years. Using this plan as a guide, Hadar will reach many more people, shape more communities, and share much more Torah, offering insight and inspiration that will have a real and lasting impact on Jewish lives across the country, and around the world.

Hadar has just completed the implementation of its first formal strategic plan (2016-2020), and we are pleased to report that the process has been a resounding success. Hadar’s faculty and staff greatly exceeded the goals set out in that plan, in breadth of impact and organizational growth. Based on this impressive achievement, we are confident in our ability to take Hadar to the next level of growth, allowing us to reach, and bring into Hadar’s content and programming, a broader cross-section of the Jewish world.

We are grateful to the Aviv Foundation, whose generous support enabled us to work with the TCC Group in creating this plan. We are also grateful to the Hadar faculty and staff, Board of Directors, and dozens of committee members who offered their time and wisdom in the process of creating this plan.

We hope that you find this plan as impressive and exciting as we do, and we invite you to join us in making Hadar’s dream into a lived reality for Jews seeking a meaningful way to connect with Judaism and Jewish tradition.

Our Core Values

Torah | תוראה

- Passionate Torah study that is rigorous, nuanced and sensitive to the full range of human experiences, combining critical study and intellectual openness with religious hunger and expression.
- A community where Torah study is widely practiced and peer-reinforced, that values Torah literacy and fluency, based on the conviction that the Torah is the birthright of all Jews.
- A community that is at home in and contributes to the conversation of Torah, which is experienced as a powerful way to address life’s deepest questions.

Avodah | עבודה

- Jewish practice that is attentive and consistent, including communal prayer that is spiritually and emotionally resonant.
- A community that embraces mitzvot with a full heart and through peer-reinforced practice, which engages our deepest ethical and religious instincts.
- A commitment to gender equality in practice, leadership and citizenship as the proper application of Torah to contemporary reality, motivated by the importance of encountering each and every human being as the image of God.

- Hesed—love manifested as kindness—is an underlying principle of religious life and is rooted in the recognition of humanity’s creation in the image of God.
- There can be no service of God without a journey to greater kindness, empathy and sensitivity; when Torah is studied properly—with heart and not just mind, with vulnerability and presence—it ought to lead to a life of hesed.
- A community that is characterized and animated by hesed, such that Torah study, practice of mitzvot, and interpersonal interactions are all shaped by this central value.
Vision
Jews, in communities throughout North America and Israel, are living meaningful lives of Torah, Avodah and Hesed.

Mission
Hadar empowers Jews to create and sustain vibrant, practicing, egalitarian communities of Torah, Avodah, and Hesed.

Impact Statement
Hadar’s strategy to realize our vision has two parts; each is crucial for the realization of our ultimate goal:

1. Building a core of individuals and communities that lives out our vision of Torah, Avodah, and Hesed;
2. Ensuring that this core radiates out to those in the larger Jewish community who can participate in and shape its vision.
Executive Summary

Strategic Plan 2021-2024

Goal 1: Vibrant Center
Goal 2: Lived Judaism
Goal 3: Meaningful Torah
Goal 4: Our Work in Israel
Goal 5: Organizational Capacity
GOAL 1

Vibrant Center

Strengthen our immersive learning center (yeshiva) to fully anchor all parts of our vision.

Hadar’s vibrant center, our yeshiva, will become a powerhouse in the years ahead, and will be the engine that drives our broader work in the world. We will invest in people—our growing faculty and a new 4-year Kollel (advanced learning program) training future teachers and leaders.

We will expand our immersive programs (ranging from several days to several years) by recruiting a broader range of participants and experimenting with new formats. We will dramatically increase learning opportunities through classes, lectures and Jewish rituals as we will build substantive in-person and online learning opportunities that are accessible to more people.
GOAL 2

Lived Judaism

Enable Jews to meaningfully explore and sustainably live out Hadar’s holistic vision of Jewish practice.

Judaism is meant to be lived, and Hadar intends to reach more Jews in the natural rhythm of their lives. The beauty of Jewish life is its richness and multiple avenues for connection and engagement.

We will...

• Engage deeply with children and families, empowering our youngest community members to live out Judaism at home.

• Double enrollment in our online study platform, Project Zug, which allows people to engage with texts—and each other—on their own schedules.

• Expand the reach of Pedagogy of Partnership, which uses havruta to cultivate empowered and meaningful Jewish learning.

• Enable people to feel the powerful relevance of Torah to their lives, through skills-based online and local classes.

• Reinvigorate prayer and communal singing through our Rising Song Institute, with new melodies to lift up ancient words.

• Convene alumni and others seeking to experience and live Hadar’s vision in gatherings to build networks and community.
GOAL 3

Meaningful Torah

Maximize the impact of Hadar’s Torah by reaching more people in more ways through meaningful content.

Torah is the beating heart of the contemporary Jewish community. Hadar will teach and publish Torah that is uncompromisingly honest, spiritually meaningful, and speaks to today’s most pressing social issues. We will maximize the impact of Hadar’s Torah by:

- Generating and sharing enduring ideas through books and publications that will be relevant decades into the future.
- Making content that is widely accessible and speaks to a broad audience.

A central piece of this work will happen through the J.J. Greenberg Institute for the Advancement of Jewish Life (JJGI), devoted to the teachings of Rabbi Yitz Greenberg.
GOAL 4

Our Work in Israel

Enhance the visibility, vitality and acceptance of Hadar’s model in mainstream Israeli society.

We believe that to realize the full potential of contemporary Jewish life, there must be a deep relationship between North American and Israeli Jewry. We are building Hadar’s presence in Israel and investing in Israel-based programming and staffing, in order to promote Hadar’s values in mainstream Israeli society. We will do this by:

• Fostering rigorous learning in a gender-egalitarian yeshiva.

• Creating learning opportunities to expand our audience beyond typical demographic and religious boundaries.

• Supporting our alumni in Israel.

• Partnering with a broad range of Israeli communities.
GOAL 5
Organizational Capacity

Build the organizational capacity, structure and foundation to achieve and uphold Hadar’s goals.

Achieving these ambitious goals will require significant upgrades to our organizational capacity.

This will include investments in: the recruitment and retention of a growing faculty and staff, more sophisticated marketing and communications, new data systems and technology, and a brand-new long-term facility. Through new multi-year gifts, as well as increased revenue, we plan to expand from a budget of about $5.6 million in 2020 to more than $10 million in 2024.

With proper support and resources, Hadar is poised to transform Jewish life across the country and around the world.
OVER THE PAST FOUR YEARS, THE HADAR Institute has grown significantly, reflecting increased demand for our content and our model of teaching and learning. Under our first strategic plan (2016-2020), Hadar more than doubled in size, audience and impact. We have shaped the Jewish lives of many more participants, while continuing to make Torah study of the highest quality accessible to a broad audience.

The 2016-20 Strategic Plan included three programmatic goals, as well as an organizational capacity goal to help us build the infrastructure necessary to implement our programmatic goals. The three programmatic goals were:

- To strengthen and expand Hadar’s immersive programs.
- To support and strengthen communities around the country.
- To impact diverse audiences through powerful content.

OUR IMMERSIVE PROGRAMS RANGE IN DURATION from several days to several years, serving both Jewish professionals (such as day school teachers, rabbis, and foundation professionals) and laypeople from a variety of audiences (including college students, retirees, music lovers, and so many others). Participation in these programs has more than doubled between 2016 and 2020, reaching close to 800 people annually, and far outpacing the growth predicted in the strategic plan.

While these numbers are impressive, it is important to note that Hadar’s commitment to offering programs of the highest quality has not changed. A formal multi-year evaluation from Rosov Consulting shows Hadar’s immersive programs have a deep and lasting impact on the Jewish lives of participants, strengthening and empowering them to lead more actively committed Jewish lives. This, in turn, had a powerful impact on their Jewish communities.
“Hadar was my introduction to Jewish life and thought. It was the first place I had role models for how to live a deeply committed, gender-egalitarian life, and has helped me to develop a deep identification with the Jewish tradition.”

YESHIVAT HADAR ALUM
Support & Strengthen Communities

WE HAVE SUPPORTED AND STRENGTHENED communities around the country in myriad ways. Rosov’s evaluation discovered that Hadar’s “alumni go on to be actively engaged in their communities, taking on important projects that are supported and/or inspired by Hadar.”

2020 PROJECT ZUG PARTICIPANT

PROJECT ZUG PARTICIPANTS
OUR CONTENT HAS HAD A STRONG AND LASTING impact on thousands of people across the globe. In the past year alone, Hadar's online content (essays, podcasts, recorded lectures) was downloaded or streamed over 2.7 million times, live participation in lectures and classes jumped to over 30,000, and the Rising Song Institute continues to create and record new music - including 3 albums and numerous other recordings, which have been streamed or played hundreds of thousands of times.

The Rosov evaluation found that Hadar’s content is consumed by a “wide range of individuals” - an even split between people under 30, 31-50 and over 50, with a broad educational background (65% did not attend Jewish day school). Hadar’s content has a strong influence on those who use it, “providing a way to think about Judaism differently than before, creating tangible changes in their lives.” Many people are “using Hadar’s content to create community.”
Hadar lectures have broadened and deepened my understanding of core Jewish texts and ideas. They have affected how I think, talk, and live Jewishly.

HADAR WAS EXTREMELY EFFECTIVE IN SHIFTING ALL of our programming and operations online in response to the Covid-19 pandemic. We pivoted quickly and efficiently, adapting existing programs and creating new programs tailored to meet the needs of this moment. We offered high-quality virtual immersives, expanded the numbers learning with Project Zug (our havruta-learning platform), and created hundreds of online lectures and regular classes, as well as launching robust family and children’s programming - an entirely new initiative for Hadar. The 100%-online format necessitated by Covid has created new opportunities for Hadar’s teaching and learning, and enabled us to reach a far broader audience - ten times as large as our normal programming cycle. In this time of great uncertainty and suffering, many people are seeking meaning and wisdom, and are looking to Hadar for Torah that speaks to both the heart and soul.

FINALLY, HADAR HAS GROWN SIGNIFICANTLY IN organizational reach and capacity in the past four years. We have nearly doubled our staff and our budget, outpacing our original 2016 goals. We completed a logo and branding redesign, opened new offices in multiple cities, and welcomed major new supporters to our ranks. Our board now has national representation, with clear governance and responsibilities. Hadar is recognized as a top Jewish organization; a leader in the start-up world that emerged into full organizational maturity. We are well positioned for the next stage of organizational growth.
Hadar's Next Stage

Our New Strategic Plan

Goal 1: Vibrant Center
Goal 2: Lived Judaism
Goal 3: Meaningful Torah
Goal 4: Our Work in Israel
Goal 5: Organizational Capacity

WE ENVISION A WORLD IN WHICH JEWISH LEARNING is spiritually uplifting, intellectually compelling, and ethically challenging; a world in which Jewish prayer stirs our souls, moves our hearts, and enlivens our minds; a world in which being present for one another in moments of need is truly understood as Judaism’s highest value. We envision a world in which these commitments to Torah, Avodah, and Hesed are inextricably intertwined and form the very core of our lives—as individuals, as communities, and as a people.

The Hadar Institute works to propel this world forward by empowering Jews to create and sustain vibrant, practicing, egalitarian communities animated by Torah, Avodah, and Hesed.

This has been and remains our mission, our guiding principle. We have never known this to be truer than in these challenging times. And so, as we enter a new strategic phase, our values, our vision and mission remain the same. We feel energized to have clarity about our direction, even as our renewed goals and objectives—outlined below—will focus us on new areas of growth. In the years ahead, we will double down on our mission and vision to become a central piece of the contemporary Jewish landscape, aiming to leave our mark on a generational scale.
Strengthen our immersive learning center (yeshiva) to fully anchor all parts of our vision.

Building a life of steady commitment requires inspiration. And second-hand reports are never a replacement for encountering something directly with full force.

Hadar’s ideas and vision, our distinctive cluster of values and commitments described above, achieve their full impact when people experience them for themselves in an integrated fashion. Our vibrant center of learning, our Yeshiva, is the hub for our immersive programs, which invites people into a holistic space of Jewish purpose and commitment. That center is also the space from which we lead, model, inspire and connect.

Hadar is known for its sophisticated and meaningful Torah: step into our center and you can hear a faculty member teaching with passion in their own voice, speaking to a community that is living out that Torah in real time.

Hadar is known for its commitment to gender equality: step into our center and you will see what it feels like for that principle to strike deep roots in our most ancient texts and prayers.

Hadar is a network of people who share a quest for purpose and meaning: step into our center and meet people from all over who can be your fellow travelers on that journey for the rest of your life.
“Hadar gave me confidence to engage with text, and to teach text to others. The process of developing the ‘Living Room Learning’ sticks with me as a guide for developing text studies to share, and gave me the confidence to teach text in that way.”

YESHIVAT HADAR ALUM
For our vision to strike deeper roots and have broader reach, we will invest more deeply in the vibrant center that serves as a flagship for who we are, enables us to engage people in depth, and catalyzes Jews to build communities driven by our values. We will do this by investing in people—a growing faculty with time to learn, teach and write, alongside an Advanced Kollel that will graduate a cohort of rabbis and educators by 2023. These leaders and teachers will model the full synthesis of what we stand for and will drive our vision forward.

We will expand the reach of our immersive programs—recruiting from a broader base and developing new modes of cohort-based programming. As always, our programming will be demanding, engaging and accessible. We will dramatically increase our class offerings by continuing the trend of 2020, which saw our engagement numbers explode as we moved more intentionally into our online space, but also by capitalizing on pent-up desire to convene as people return to gather and learn in person again.

We will offer classes that focus on skills, empowering people not only to learn with us, but also to acquire tools that will enable them to contribute to their home communities.

Hadar’s vibrant center will become a powerhouse in the years ahead, and it will be the engine that will drive our broader work in the world.

“Having the opportunity to study Talmud in a serious environment, being treated as a full member of a learning community was particularly meaningful to me.”

“[I now believe] we can have a progressive, committed, serious, rigorous Judaism! We don’t have to pick one thing.”

HADAR IMMERSIVE PARTICIPANT
Enable Jews to meaningfully explore and sustainably live out Hadar’s holistic vision of Jewish practice.

Judaism is meant to be lived. We don’t just ponder God, we pray and we sing. We don’t only ruminate on the dignity of human beings, we engage in acts of hesed/kindness to others. We don’t merely learn texts, we translate them into practice. And most dramatically, the Jewish covenant calls for a lifelong commitment to all of these endeavors. Everything we do at Hadar is geared to making our values manifest in the world, taking them from the realm of theory into well-grounded, self-sustaining communities that fill people’s lives with practice and purpose.

As we move forward, we will invest with significant focus on enabling people to meaningfully explore and sustainably live out Hadar’s holistic vision of Jewish practice. For Hadar’s success to be lasting, we need to ensure that our vision is being lived out outside of our directly facilitated program spaces, that it is integrated in people’s personal and communal routines, wherever they may be.

The beauty of Jewish life and practice is its richness and its multiple avenues for connection and engagement; we will leverage that richness to engage people through multiple modes.

For so many, the life stage of raising children is when they take the fullest and most intensive ownership of their Judaism. We will engage deeply with children and families in this next phase of our work, empowering our youngest community members and their families to live out Judaism in their home. No communal and religious vision can grow and prosper without a concrete investment in the next generation. And Judaism has always been built on investments in kids and those who are raising them. It is in the early years of life that we acquire the language and the patterns of thought that shape us for decades to come. This new division of Hadar will constitute ambitious and forward-thinking work in the coming years, as new programs and constituencies show that we intend our vision for Jewish life to have lifelong, multi-generational impact.

Everyone deserves the opportunity to be an independent Jewish learner who can connect with peers to enter the world of Jewish study: We will double enrollment in our online study platform, Project Zug, and we will expand the reach of Pedagogy of Partnership, which works with teachers to cultivate empowered and meaningful Jewish learning through havruta and other relational approaches in classrooms across the country. We will offer classes anchored around serious preparation of texts and the pursuit of longitudinal learning goals, all with the goal of enabling people to feel the powerful relevance of Torah to their lives.

Many people long to bring prayer and song into their lives. Our Rising Song Institute will reinvigorate prayer and communal singing with new melodies to lift up ancient words.

We will also convene alumni of our programs and others seeking to experience and live Hadar’s vision in gatherings that will give participants a deep sense of network and community. Through national and regional conferences and in-person and virtual cohorts, we will link fellow travelers with one another, inviting people not only to engage with Hadar, but also to find allies and partners to make our vision for Judaism something that can follow you for your entire life.

This goal is dedicated to making Hadar’s vision something you can live out in your daily life, whether or not Hadar faculty and staff are with you. Vibrancy and commitment can and should be found everywhere, not just in a yeshiva or other professionally programmed spaces. Taken together, our interventions in these areas will support Hadar’s holistic vision for our growing community.

SELECTED BENCHMARK
- Create 2 new initiatives (e.g. resources for egalitarian Jewish marriage) by 2024.
Maximize the impact of Hadar’s Torah by reaching more people in more ways through meaningful content.

Without content, without Torah, there is no beating heart to contemporary Jewish community. In 21st century America’s world of virtually limitless possibilities, a world in which ethnicity no longer meaningfully binds and in which Judaism competes in a marketplace of ideas, Judaism must offer a sense of mission and purpose in order for it to be compelling.

People don’t choose a millennia-old religion because of its comfortable correspondence with the familiar and the conventional. They choose it because of its transcendent power and its ability to critique and direct one’s life. Judaism, anchored in Torah, beckons by imagining who you might be instead of simply reflecting back at you that which you already are.

When Torah—the treasure trove of Jewish wisdom accumulated by our people—stands at the heart of Jewish life, that sense of relevance and importance becomes palpable. Jewish individuals and communities are at their most compelling when on a path of self-discovery, when they are engaged in deep learning about what is demanded of them as human beings and Jews. Belonging for the sake of belonging alone is no longer enough. Our commitment to building Jewish community has thus always entailed a commitment to innovative, compelling and relevant Jewish content.
For over a decade, Hadar has not only run programs and networked people together, but also has taught and published Torah that is uncompromisingly honest, spiritually meaningful, and socially responsible. We have seen how our content has enabled us to engage a vastly broader audience than we can touch through our intensive programming alone. And an assessment conducted by Rosov Consulting showed how durable the impact of this content is: People don’t just consume Hadar’s content; it accompanies them for years and changes their attitudes and behaviors in measurable ways.

Now is our moment to maximize the impact of Hadar’s Torah by investing further in our ideas. We plan to focus primarily on two areas:

Generating and sharing enduring ideas that articulate values and approaches that we expect to be relevant decades into the future. We intend to publish a signature book every year, to convene gatherings of scholars and teachers to explore new topics of this sort, and to align a subset of our programs to develop teaching and thinking that we expect to have long-term effects on Jewish life.

Making widely accessible content that provocatively engages with the contemporary world through Torah to a broad audience. We are thrilled that a central piece of this work will happen through the J.J. Greenberg Institute for the Advancement of Jewish Life (JJGI), which will be devoted to the propagation of the teachings of R. Yitz Greenberg through videos, short essays, podcasts and other formats. JJGI will also serve as a catalyst for extending the reach of Hadar’s Torah more broadly as we use these same strategies to spread the teachings of our larger faculty.

All of this will require significant investment in technology, a website upgrade and a talented team who can focus on taking our distribution systems to the next level. We know that Hadar’s content offers a unique voice; it is time to make sure the world hears it at full volume.
GOAL 3

Meaningful Torah Objectives

1. ENDURING
Generate and articulate core ideas and approaches that ground Hadar’s vision and worldview in their fullest, most developed and enduring ways.

• Pilot 2 new professional-grade podcasts by December 2023.
“For Torah shall emerge from Zion and the word of God from Jerusalem.”

ISAIAH 2:3

Enhance the visibility, vitality and acceptance of Hadar’s model in mainstream Israeli society.

We live in a remarkable moment in Jewish history, at a period of one of the most creative and free Jewish diasporas there have ever been. While many are focused on demographic challenges and uncertainties in contemporary North American Jewry, it is undeniable that North American Jewry is enjoying a period of astounding creativity and is engaging fundamental questions of Jewish identity that have not been this deeply explored for millennia. In so many ways, the ideas and vision at the heart of Hadar could only have emerged from this moment in North American Jewish history, with the great privilege enjoyed by Jews living here.

We are also blessed to live at a time when Jewish culture has returned in force to the land of Israel. While the demographers can argue some of the finer points, there is no question that the plurality of deeply committed and engaged Jews in the world is once more located in Israel, such that it is again not only metaphorically, but also literally true that Torah issues forth from Zion and Jerusalem once more. Even as Israel faces so many deep and unsettling political challenges, the revolution wrought by the revival of Hebrew and a deep and broad Israeli investment in Jewish culture is irrefutable. As such, anyone seriously engaging with any vision of Judaism today must ask: how does this translate to and engage with an Israeli context? Visions that do not do this risk becoming a footnote in the broader sweep of Jewish history. In fact, we feel that there is a deeply symbiotic relationship between these two centers of Jewish life. Only when the North American center and the Israeli center work together can the full potential of contemporary Jewish life be realized.

At Hadar, we are passionate about realizing our vision through the prism of the symbiosis of these two centers. We are unquestionably a North American institution by origin, but we now have full-time faculty and staff in Israel, and our North America-based faculty is bilingual and frequently teaches in Hebrew. We run immersive programs for Israelis in Hebrew in Israel, and we have begun producing original Hebrew language content that lives on our Hebrew-language website and that gets distributed to our growing Israeli constituency. We run an annual alumni conference in Israel for well over 150 Hebrew-speaking fellowship alumni who call Israel home, and an annual minyan conference for dozens of grassroots Israeli communities.

As we enter the next phase of our Israel programming, we are focused on turning the core ideas of Hadar into a viable pathway for committed Jewish living in an Israeli context. To do so, we will pursue many of the same strategies and goals we have been pursuing in North America, but with sensitivity to local Israeli conditions and needs.

Ideologically, we believe that the Jewish people is one people, and that its two major centers must be in deep relationship and dialogue. Practically, we see a future wherein Israeli Judaism will exert an increasingly influential role in key arenas of committed American Jewish life. In this world, one in which more and more of the most committed American Jews have had deep experiences in Israel, have had Israeli teachers and look to Israel as a major Jewish cultural center, even our North American successes will depend on integrating our vision and our content with Israeli Judaism.

We are excited to invest in our Israel-based programming and staffing as a fully integrated component of our strategic vision. Hadar’s presence in Israel will go from a suite of creative and successful programs to a presence on the ground that is recognizable as a meaningful social and religious network.

“Hadar was the first place that I had role models that observed halakhah in a gender egalitarian community.”

HADAR IMMERSIVE PARTICIPANT

Achieving these ambitious goals will require significant upgrades to our organizational capacity. We need to grow in a range of areas so we can function with maximum professionalism, increase our efficiency and continue to be the healthy and supportive workplace we have been proud to be for over a decade. Each Leading Edge employee survey that we take consistently shows that members of our team believe strongly in our leadership and feel supported and engaged by our work. As we grow, we need to ensure that we maintain that ethos.

We are in this for the long term; we want members of our team who have so much to contribute to be able to do so sustainably and with a continued sense of commitment and purpose. We will invest in growing our faculty and staff in the coming years to ensure we can accomplish our ambitious programmatic goals in a sustainable manner.

We are excited to begin the process of moving to a new physical location for our central Yeshiva space and offices and to build into our budget meaningful resources allotted for spaces that will enable us to run programs that are of the highest quality.

External Evaluation Results
Rosov Consulting’s Evaluation of Hadar’s 2016-2020 Strategic Plan

As part of our 2016-2020 strategic plan implementation, we engaged Rosov Consulting to do a comprehensive evaluation of our plan execution. For more than three years, Rosov evaluators surveyed and interviewed our program attendees and content users, often multiple times. The results are included in the pages below, and focus on the three major areas of our 2016 Strategic Plan:

- Immersive programs
- Support and strengthen communities
- Powerful content
FOCUS AREA

Immersive Programs

Strengthen and expand Hadar’s Immersive Programs.

CENTRAL EVALUATION QUESTIONS

1. What does an Immersive Program offer?

   Participants are energized by Immersive Programs at Hadar. Their reactions go beyond being highly satisfied. The experiences reverberate with meaning and concrete Jewish takeaways even 8 and 18 months later.

2. How is Hadar making a lasting impact on participants?

   After completing a Hadar Immersive Program, participants feel motivated to continue their Jewish learning and feel confident in their abilities to lead Jewish lives and communities. They attribute these feelings and intentions directly to Hadar. Wanting to bring Hadar’s vision back home is an oft-stated goal.

3. Who participates in Immersive Programs at Hadar?

   Participants in Hadar Immersive Programs span all ages and types of Jewish upbringing, yet they have much in common. They are confident in their Jewish practice, and many are mission-aligned with Hadar. Most importantly, participants seem primed to engage in various aspects of Jewish life, often as leaders. Immersive Programs (cont.)

MAIN FINDINGS

Short-Term Outcomes

1.1 Hadar experiences leave participants with many takeaways, both about themselves and about their views of the Jewish world. These takeaways resonate in their lives for a long time after the program has finished.

1.2 Participants are highly satisfied with their Immersive Programs and leave having had extremely meaningful experiences.

1.3 People who attended Hadar Immersives are confident in their abilities to engage in Jewish learning on their own and feel strongly about their connection to Jewish traditions, hesed, and egalitarian Judaism.

1.4 Many past participants actively attribute their high confidence in and strongly-felt attitudes about Jewish practice to their time at Hadar, even eight months after the program has finished.

1.5 Participants leave Immersive Programs feeling motivated to continue their learning. They continue to feel motivated even eight months later. Many attribute this motivation to Hadar.

1.6 Hadar participants leave with meaningful and concrete goals for themselves and their communities that remain relevant over time.

1.7 Many Immersive Program participants feel they would like to bring Hadar’s vision—however they understand it—to their home communities. More than half of respondents feel they are well positioned to bring Hadar’s vision home.

1.8 Participants are involved in myriad ways in their Jewish communities right after they return and for many months afterwards.

1.9 No matter how long someone spends at Hadar, the impact is still felt many months later. However, participants in longer-term programs lasting one month or more are more powerfully impacted by their experience.

FOCUS AREA

Support & Strengthen Communities

Support individuals and groups of individuals seeking to create, strengthen, and transform communities dedicated to our vision of Torah, Avodah, and Hesed.

CENTRAL EVALUATION QUESTIONS

1. How does Hadar work to strengthen its values and mission on the ground?

   Hadar’s growing alumni network is its strongest asset. Cultivation of this network is accomplished through powerful Immersive Programs and content that have a lasting effect on participants. Some alumni view Hadar as their primary source of support for projects they lead within their Jewish community (such as an independent minyan or a learning program).

2. How, if at all, do alumni meaningfully impact their home communities after an immersive experience?

   A large number of alumni are furthering Hadar’s mission in their home communities. Many have formed or taken on leadership roles in independent minyanim (prayer groups) or learning spaces based on Hadar’s model. Others have simply become more engaged in their Jewish practice—which in turn strengthens communities on the ground.

3. Which elements of strategic partnerships lead to impact on the ground?

   Hadar’s most successful strategic partnerships are those which feature a prolonged, deep investment of time and resources. The work that has been done in Washington, DC, is a prime example of the type of positive impact such partnerships can have.
Focus Area

2.2 Many Hadar alumni go on to be actively engaged in their communities, taking on important projects that are supported and/or inspired by Hadar.

2.3 Hadar has cultivated a robust network of alumni. This network provides support to alumni in many ways, often in their work to further Hadar’s vision.

Project Zug

2.4 Project Zug empowers individuals, including those with and without prior experiences learning Jewish text, to connect with one another and to high-quality Jewish learning.

Hadar in DC

2.5 Hadar has provided relevant, rich content to participants in its Washington, DC programs.

2.6 Hadar has tapped into a network of individuals who are primarily attracted by its content.

2.7 Having a dedicated full-time Hadar rabbi in DC has paid dividends.

Rising Song Institute (RSI)

2.8 RSI offers a unique opportunity for participants, with varied backgrounds in music and Jewish song leadership, to immerse themselves in Jewish music.

2.9 The peer network that is provided by these programs is both a motivator to participate and an outgrowth of participation.

MAIN FINDINGS

3.1 Weekly Divrei Torah written by Hadar educators were the most-used form of content, while melodies written by Joey Weisenberg were the second-most used.

3.2 A relatively large number of individuals interact with Hadar’s content on social media or through weekly emails.

3.5 People are spreading Hadar’s content widely within their communities. When they need references for something they’re writing or creating, Hadar is the go-to source for many.

3.6 After experiencing Hadar’s content collectively, several communities across the country have worked to adopt key messages: commitment to halakhah (Jewish law), egalitarianism, and Torah that is relevant to the modern world.

3.7 Participating in an Immersive Program is a strong predictor for increased usage of Hadar’s content, as the experience exposes individuals to a wider range of materials.

3.8 Hadar’s content seems to appeal to a range of demographic categories, with no discernable differences by age or gender.
“As an ordained Orthodox rabbi, these divrei Torah have reignited a lot of the passion that I have lost over the years relating to learning.”
